WILL KATIE BE A RUNAWAY BRIDE?

Famed fashion photographer Patrick Demarchelier shot the new campaign at a horse farm in Harriman, N.Y. Here, Murphy and new pal Cloud get to know each other.

Brittany Murphy Rides Again

FOR JORDACHE
JEANS

The red-hot starlet gets up close and personal with Jordache's famed logo in a sexy new ad campaign for the legendary denim company

Mmm... Murphy and the crew feasted on chicken and cherry pie.

As these pictures attest, Brittany Murphy has come a long way from the frumpy high-school outcast she played in 1995's Clueless! With her long tresses, sleek physique and feisty screen presence, the actress, 27, was a natural choice for Jordache executives looking to infuse their famed brand with a fresh youthfulness. "It's a new age for Jordache," says a source who was at the eight-hour photo shoot. "It's about being fun, playful — all qualities Brittany has." The shoot was held on a hot, steamy day in June, but insiders say Brittany, who has been dating film-set electrician Joe Macaluso since October, charmed the crew by asking everyone's name and taking pictures with the company's president. The actress, now in London filming the comedy Love and Other Disasters, modeled an array of the company's new styles, which are updated for a classic, comfy look. No doubt she snagged a few pairs to wear across the pond!

"She'd never been on a horse before," a source on the shoot tells Star, though Murphy turned out to be a pro: Before climbing aboard, she petted Cloud and fed him apples.

Brittany, who brought her uncle and cousin with her, showed up on set wearing a T-shirt and Jordache's new Marquis Flare jeans. Talk about a devoted spokesmodel!

The Jordache team gave Murphy a fresh, tousled look to highlight her natural charm.
